

Intrigue of the Past
An Introduction to North Carolina's Project Archaeology Curriculum

Saturday, October 17, 2009
11:30 AM – 2:30 PM
The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill

This free workshop will introduce North Carolina's Intrigue of the Past curriculum and other educational resources available through the Research Laboratories of Archaeology at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill. It is most appropriate for teachers of students in grades 4–8. All participants will receive a copy of Intrigue of the Past: North Carolina's First Peoples. Teachers who use two or more lessons in their classrooms and provide written feedback within three months will be eligible for 0.5 license renewal credits.

As part of the workshop, participants will join professional and avocational archaeologists for lunch from 11:30 AM –12:30 PM.

Space is limited to 20 participants. Registrations will be accepted on a first-come, first-served basis, and a $10 deposit is required to guarantee a spot. The deposit will be refunded upon completion of the workshop.

To register, complete the information below and return it with a $10 check (made payable to "Research Laboratories of Archaeology") to Theresa McReynolds, Research Laboratories of Archaeology, Campus Box 3120, UNC-Chapel Hill, Chapel Hill, NC 27599-3120; temcre@email.unc.edu.

Name:

Address:

Daytime Phone:

Email:

Current Position and School:

Subject(s) of Instruction and Grade Level(s):